Weed Landscape Nurseries

LOCATION

The Weed Landscape Nursery is located on the Canyon Road six miles west of Portland and one mile east of Beaverton. We invite an inspection of stock at all times, and upon notice by phone from Portland—Main 9158—will be pleased to meet parties and show them over our grounds. From Portland the nursery may be reached via auto over the Canyon Road six miles from the center of the city.

The nursery is owned by Howard Evarts Weed, for many years a Landscape Architect of Chicago. The location was selected after ten years' investigation to find the ideal combination of soil and climatic conditions suitable for the growth of ornamental plants. A cordial invitation is extended to visitors at all times to inspect the wonderful variety of ornamental plants which we grow. We have the most extensive collection of Peonies in the west and the largest selection of Iris in the Northwest. Those who have not seen our collections of these two flowers can little realize their beauty. The Iris are at their best during the month of May and the Peonies during the first three weeks of June. Phloxes and other perennials make a fine showing later in the season, so one will be amply repaid for the time expended in a visit to the nursery at any season.

We specialize in landscape gardening. If you contemplate the planting of ornamental plants on your home grounds, Mr. Weed will be pleased to inspect your grounds and give an estimate of the cost of any improvements. Our general catalogue of ornamental plants will be sent upon request.

PEONIES

From the earliest times the Peony has been recognized as the grandest of all flowers, vying with the rose in popular favor. While it succeeds in all temperate climates, it seems to reach its greatest perfection in the climatic conditions of the Pacific Northwest. It requires no special care in its cultivation, but should be taken up every eight or ten years, divided and reset. They do best in full or partial sunlight.

Our present collection of peonies is the result of ten years selection and critical study of varieties. As there have been over two thousand varieties introduced, our aim is to keep our list below the three hundred mark. But as new varieties are introduced, we spend each June among our blooms trying to find varieties with which we can live without. We wish to keep only the distinctive kinds—those which our visitors select when they see the blooms. In this study we have discarded over a hundred varieties and now present this list of 346 varieties as being the best in existence—not a poor or even a medium sort in the lot.

We advise planting only in the fall, September and October being best. The plants which we furnish have three to five eyes and most varieties will give bloom the first year from planting. Our prices are as low as good plants can be furnished, as peonies increase only slowly from the division of the roots. After all, it is not what one pays for an article, as what they get for their money. One good peony root is worth a dozen poor roots and one superior variety is worth a dozen of the common sorts.

Peonies are best selected at the nursery during the blooming season of May and June. The main showing is generally in early June, peonies being at their best at the same season as roses. Visitors at the nursery select their own varieties for delivery of the roots in September. In the selection of varieties it is important to get those which bloom at different seasons and in the various assortments of single, Japonese and double flowering. If the selection of varieties is left to us, we will give the best assortment for the money expended and an assortment which will extend the flowering season over a period of six weeks. In color, peonies are red, pink and white, with all shades between.

PEONIES ARE CLASSIFIED AS FOLLOWS

SINGLE. Those with a single row of wide guard petals, and a center of yellow pollen bearing stamens.

SEMI-DOUBLE. Those with several rows of wide petals, and a center of stamens and partially transformed petaloids.

JAPANESE. Those having two rows of wide outer petals and a center composed of narrow petaloids of various colors, but without pollen.

ANEMENE. A step further in the process of doubling, with the stamens all transformed into short, narrow petals, forming a round cushion in the center of the flower.

CROWN. Here the wide petals are developed in the center of the flower, forming a high crown, with the narrow short petals forming a ring or collar around it.

BOMB. More fully double, in which all the center petals are uniformly wide, approaching the guards, but distinctly differentiated from them, forming a globe shaped center without collar or crown.

SEMI-ROSE. Flowers in which the petals are uniformly wide, but are loosely built, generally with a few pollen bearing stamens showing.

ROSE. Completely double with the petals all wide, forming a perfect rose-shaped flower.

In the description of varieties, we give the name of the originator, date of introduction, type of flower, color, season, and price. We realize that the names and descriptions given mean nothing to one not familiar with peonies in trying to make a selection of varieties from a catalog. We have therefore placed * before those varieties which are of special merit for the small prices asked for them. In other words, we consider these varieties the best for the money.

We have hundreds of visitors at the nursery during the peony season, and if you have never seen thirty thousand peonies in bloom, mere words cannot describe their beauty to you. So here is the invitation to you to see this wonderful sight.

Early May Flowering Peonies

These are mostly single and include several distinct species. Some should be included in every collection, for they bloom from one to four weeks earlier than the others. The season of bloom is from the middle of April to the last of May.

ANOMALA. A graceful species with fine cut foliage.
Rose-lilac flowers$2.00

ANOMALA, PETER BARR. With large saucer shaped flowers. Rich crimson. One of the first to bloom.

VIOLACEA FIMBRIATA PLENA. Full double flowers with narrow fimbriated petals. Violaceous red.. $2.00

VIOLACEA SPHERICA. Large convex bloom. Violaceous red. $2.00

Single Peonies

Most people know the peony only as a double flower, but as the single flowers become better known, they are very popular. When a selection of varieties is made during the blooming season, several varieties of the singles are selected, as they make a pleasing contrast with the double sorts. So some of these should be included in every collection.

ALBIFLORA, THE BRIDE. A very large pure white, considered the finest single white. Early..... $3.00

CELESTE BROCHET. (Brochet.) Soft flesh pink. Very fine. $3.00

- WILBUR WRIGHT. (Kelway.) Chocolate-maroon. A striking color.$3.00

Japanese Peonies

The Japanese Peonies are intermediate between the single and double flowers, having two rows of guard petals, with the stamens transformed into narrow petaloids. To distinguish between a single and a Japanese peony, we have only to remember that the stamens bear yellow pollen in the singles, while the petaloids of the Japanese flowers have no pollen.

This class of peonies is as yet but little known to the general public and visitors to our nursery or flower exhibits, are much enthused by their distinctive beauty. The flowers are so different from the double varieties, that many of our visitors order a special collection of only Japanese varieties.

- AKALU. Large carmine red flower, tuft of central filamentous petals safron yellow, striped carmine.$2.00
- ALBATROSS. (Wallace.) Pink tinted guard petals, with a central filling of old gold, narrow, crimped petals.$2.00

ADELIADÉ HOLLIS. (Hollis, 1907.) Large, compact, globular, crown. Uniform rose-white, changing to pure white. Very fragrant. Midseason.....$5.00

ADDIELANCHA. (Brand, 1907.) Rose type. Creamy white, not differentiated. Outer guard petals prominently flecked crimson and crown petals slightly so. Base of center petals yellow. Fragrance X. Strong grower. Four or five lateral flowers blooming only one or two days later than the main flower, thus forming a complete bouquet on a single stem. Late. This variety was originated by O. F. Brand in 1907, who named it after his first wife. From him we obtained our plants in 1909. A year or so later, however, the entire stock of this variety disappeared from the Brand Nursery, being sold out by mistake. We now reintroduce it as being one of the finest of the Brand peonies. Brand said of it in 1907: "There is something about this flower that is exceedingly lovely and attractive, a form and harmonious arrangement of its petals that fascinates at the first glance. With four or more blossoms open at once, it forms a whole bouquet of striking perfection.".....$25.00

PEONY BLOOMS

We can furnish during the season any number of Peony blooms in any desired colors. We also furnish thousands of blooms for the decoration of automobiles used in the floral parade of the Portland Rose Festival. Peonies hold up better than any other flower and practically all of the first prize cars and floats in the floral parade are decorated with peonies, most of which come from our collection.

Peonies last as cut flowers depending on the time they are cut. When cut in the middle of the day after opening, they will last but two or three days. But when cut in bud and placed in water in a cool dark place, thus taking 24 hours to fully open, they will last for two weeks.
